Methods Used for Data Analysis 5 The first CRL was selected as the most frequently used in March 2002 and a later retrieval for replicate data was MRL in the environmental and blank samples from among conducted in October 2003. The only difference between these those used for a particular trace element in Cycle I, except two data retrievals is that there are replicate samples from for Sr, where the MRL of the blank samples was used. This study units that completed their Cycle I sampling in water year approach was used to obtain the maximum number of uncen-2002. The data sets used for analysis in this report are posted sored values at or above the CRL. In selecting the CRL for a on the Web site for this report (http://pubs.water.usgs.gov/particular_trace_element, the QC data for each trace element sir2006-5093). The glossary located in the back of this report were processed independent of one other. Quantified (not defines QC terms that might be unfamiliar to some readers. E-remarked), semi-quantified (E-remarked), or less than () values below the CRL became a CRL value for statistical purposes. Samples that are V-marked (samples identified as Methods Used for Data Analysis being contaminated) were not used in determining the CRL. If possible, a second CRL was selected that was often the Bias and variability associated with trace element water-next lowest common MRL. The second CRL is used to better quality data can be determined by statistical...
